EDITORIAL FLINGS OF THIS THAT 'EN TOTHER

If the county candidates want to talk to all the voters of Bourbon county at one time, they should place their advertisements in THE NEWS.

We notice that many of the girls carry their hats to and from work. As they do not wear their hats while in the stores or offices it would seem simpler to leave them at home. But who can fathom the intricacies of the feminine mind?

James C. Hastings, whose pen name was "Luke McLuke," died in June. You can tell that he has gone from among us—even if you do not remember it—by reading the "Luke McLuke" column in newspapers which are making an effort to trade upon the name of the dead.

"Love is the torch we carry into the Mammoth Cave of life," says the author of "Maxims of a Modern Maid." Verily, and divorce is the electric light which in many cases illuminates the cave from floor to dome.

Germany is distressed because American papers gave more space to the Dempsey-Carpentier fight than to the signing of the peace resolution by President Harding. The reason, old stupid, is that the fight was on the square, while the resolution had neither of these merits.

A Paris grump says: "I feel sorry for the poor county candidates. They are lied on, abused and misrepresented, and then they don't know whether they are going to be elected to a job which at best pays hardly more than a railroad brakeman gets."

Wet paraders in New York, who carried a banner bearing the information, "we hold the Eighteenth Amendment unconstitutional," know that the term always has been used in malediction when no other word seemed adequate to express the deep emotion of the imprecator.

A Paris boy who likes college athletics better than text books is told that the world pays well for trained mental ability, but he knows what salaries the college professors receive, and he observes that Jack Dempsey is paying surtax of $137,510 on what he got for a few minutes' of intensive manual labor.

Merchants declare that every requisite for a modern home may be obtained in this city. The requisite for a happy home still blossoms as the rose in Paris, despite the outcry of pessimists that she bobs her hair and skirts, rouges her cheeks, powders her nose, flings aside all but four garments when bound for a dance, smokes, and devises means of defeating the purposes of the chaplains.

They are telling this one on a popular minister in an adjoining town. Last Sunday when he arose in the pulpit to begin the morning service he prefaced his remarks by saying: "It's so hot that I'm going to suggest that the men leave off their coats." Then his eyes roved over the congregation. "I believe," he continued, "that it will be unnecessary to say anything to the ladies, as they have doubtless reached the limit of preparedness in that respect."

MONTGOMERY FAIR BOOSTERS VISIT PARIS

Paris and Mt. Sterling, typified by the business men of both cities, figuratively clasped hands Friday, in cordial greetings, when a delegation of nearly one hundred "boosters" in automobiles, decorated with banners advertising the Montgomery County Fair, visited the city and county for a brief period. The "boosters" were accompanied by a detachment of Boy Scouts from Mt. Sterling, who punctured the air with bugle calls as the delegation came into the city.

Owing to the extreme heat the delegation found only a small crowd assembled to greet them. The time of their arrival from Lexington had been announced as 1:30 p. m., but they did not arrive until nearly three. Informal talks were made by members of the delegation, inviting the people of Paris to visit the Mt. Sterling fair, which begins tomorrow. Mr. Gemmel Sent, editor of the Mt. Sterling Advocate, was a member of the party and paid a call to THE NEWS. Mr. Sent stated that the program for this year was the best they had ever had, and that the promise for a real fair was the brightest for many seasons. The Mt. Sterling people have the name of sticking to their home organizations. At the conclusion of the program here the delegation departed for North Middletown and Millersburg, where informal talks were made along the same lines as here.

Among the prominent Mt. Sterling business men with the delegation were President Harry C. Hoffman and Secretary J. R. Hamlin, of the Mt. Sterling Board of Commerce; Sheriff John G. Roberts, Gemmill Sent, editor of the Mt. Sterling Advocate, Clayton Howell, Rev. T. B. Hill, Prof. H. A. Rabb, Charles D. Grubbs, J. Clay Cooper, Dr. G. M. Horton, C. W. Nesbitt, J. O. Greene, Allen Prewitt, J. M. Isola, Howard Turner, John Gatewood, Ben Scott, T. Barnard Allen, John Coleman, T. J. Wilson and H. W. Lockridge. Several ladies, wives, sisters and sweethearts of the "boosters," accompanied the party here.

GYPSIES TAKE TO MOTOR

Gypsies, not the old-fashioned kind that traveled in covered wagons, drawn by spavined, string-haltered horses, of the same general description, together with numerous mangy, yellow dogs, but the modern, up-to-date gypsies, who travel in gaudily decorated motor cars, invaded Paris, Saturday.

The motorized gypsy is an innovation, and, to a certain extent, takes much of the old-time glamor from the nomads, but their modern ideas are confined to their methods of locomotion, and are not permitted to interfere with their business methods of living or costume. The gypsies camped on the roadside near Paris, but did not tarry long, departing Saturday night in the direction of Lexington. They did not visit Paris on a business mission, but merely made it a way station on a through route.

CLINTON POULTRYMEN GET RID OF ROOSTERS

One poultry merchant in Clinton county has induced all farmers selling eggs to him to kill, confine or sell all their male birds during the summer, in order to produce infertile eggs, according to a report of J. H. Bardsley, field agent from the College of Agriculture. Mr. Bardsley has just completed a series of demonstrations in Pulaski, Wayne and Clinton counties to show farmers the proper method of handling eggs on the farm and the correct way to candle them after they reach the market. The demonstrations were a part of the program being conducted by the college in an effort to assist farmers of Kentucky in producing eggs of the highest market value.

BOURBON MAN HAS SEEN WORSE DROUTH

A certain Bourbon county farmer, when asked by a NEWS man the other day what he thought of the present drouth, replied: "Well, this is a pretty bad situation for the farmers, but I have seen worse. I know you will laugh when I tell you this, but it is a fact. In 1904 I was raising a crop of tobacco near Centerville. The last rain I had on that crop was about the middle of July, and not one drop of the precious fluid fell from the clouds from that time until Christmas Eve. In spite of the drouth I raised one of the best crops of tobacco I have ever grown. Yes, I have seen worse drouths than this, by a long shot."

"KEEP EVERLASTINGLY AT IT"

"Everybody knows I'm in business" is a familiar alibi of the non or infrequent advertiser, but— It's not what the people know; it's how much they patronize that makes or breaks you.

For a few years retailing has been an easy job; people were clamoring to buy. Now things have changed—they have got to be sold.

The wise dealers of Paris will keep his name and address in the front of the peoples' minds this year, and he will do it by aggressive advertising in THE BOURBON NEWS.

Colored globes in drug store windows were first displayed by the Moors of Arabia and Spain.

INTEREST IN STATE HEALTH WORK INCREASING

There is a distinctly increasing interest in public health work throughout Kentucky. Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, declared upon his return from a tour of inspection of eight county health departments. "I found," he said, "the county health board in every county I visited alive on the job—and I was in Bath, Clark, Madison, Scott, Harrison, Laurel, Bell and Knox counties. Generally I encountered a popular interest in public health, such as I never ran into before."

"We are getting reports," he said, when asked about health conditions in the counties visited, "of very unusual prevalence of dysentery and summer complaint in children all over Eastern Kentucky. This seems to be due largely to the unusual drought, which has concentrated the infection in the reduced water supplies."

"In the cities and towns where the water supply is properly filtered and chlorinated and where the milk is pure or effectively pasteurized there has been no increase in diarrhea, but there is a serious danger of an epidemic of this class of disease in many sections of the State. Board of Health is urging everyone in Kentucky to have himself vaccinated against typhoid."

QUALIFICATIONS NECESSARY FOR LEGAL VOTERS

Before a person shall be qualified to vote in the primary election, he shall possess all the qualifications now prescribed by the constitution and as now required of voters in regular elections.

He shall, in addition to said qualifications, be a member of the party for whose nominees he intends to cast his vote, and shall have affiliated with said party and supported its nominees, and no person shall be deemed to have affiliated with the party in whose primary he seeks to cast his vote, if he voted against the nominee or nominees of such party at the last general election.

TOBACCO PROSPECTS POOR

The outlook for a crop of fine tobacco is the worst in twenty years all over the Blue Grass. There is, however, plenty of time in which to make a big crop in pounds of inferior quality. Some of the plants are not any larger than they were when first transplanted, and will need plenty of rain to bring the crop out.

Professional tea and wine tasters do not smoke, as it might affect their palates.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Paris People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first.

But if you find 'tis from the kidneys.

That serious kidney troubles may follow.

That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end—

You will be glad to know the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Paris citizen.

Mrs. A. T. Alexander, 720 Vine street, says: "A few years ago I had an attack of kidney trouble and for a time I was unable to do my housework because of the severe pains across the center of my back. Many a night I couldn't get a wink of sleep on account of the misery in my back. My feet and ankles would swell so badly that I would have to wear large bed-room slippers. I had pains in the top and through the back of my head, too. As soon as I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I got relief and I am pleased to recommend them."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Alexander had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. (adv)

"PRAYING FOR RAIN"

A Bourbon county woman with literary aspirations, sends THE NEWS office a poem on "Prayers For Rain," which lack of space will not permit publishing at present. Rain is sadly needed here, and if it can be had by prayers it seems the present is a most excellent time for everybody, sinner and saint, to pray, and pray long, loud and lovingly.
